Dear Teachers & Educators,

NSU Art Museum presents the first solo museum exhibition of Miami artist Cici McMonigle (b. 2001, Tianjin, China). The exhibition showcases her exuberant and colorful paintings of fabulous beasts and monstrous creatures derived from Chinese and American western fables and tales, and a new series of painted wood cutouts inspired by traditional Chinese folk toys, which symbolize peace and prosperity. She notes that her work is a “distinctive and exaggerated blend of cultural spiritualism.”

Monsters seem to be everywhere these days in the work of South Florida artists, a number of whom have been featured in solo exhibitions at NSU Art Museum in recent years, including Susan Kim Alvarez, Matthew Carone, Joel Gaiten, Jaime Grant, Emilio Martinez, and Zoe Schweiger. From whence did these creatures emerge? Could it be South Florida’s geography as the Southernmost point of the East Coast of the continental United States instills fear of falling off the map? Sixteenth-century cartographers drew scary sea monsters in the oceans as signs of the great unknown, adding the inscription “Here there be Monsters” (a phrase popularized in the blockbuster film Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl, 2003). The unknown also encompasses the subconscious, and in this centenary year of the founding of Surrealism, there is a renewed fascination with the Surrealists’ techniques of pure automatism that bypass their conscious mind, and the monstrous creatures they unleash. The recent proliferation of monsters in work by South Florida artists also diverges from the identity-defining figurative art that was pervasive during the last two decades. These artists’ Chimeras are universal and free of human restraints. They can speak in coded and veiled messages to express the unmentionable and unburdened buried anxieties. The monster is the “other” in a land where foreigners are everywhere. For McMonigle, these creatures emerged from her exploration of her multicultural experience as an artist of half-Chinese and half-American heritage. Although South Florida is known for its diversity, McMonigle stands out as part-Chinese, as Asians represent less than two percent of Miami’s population. She contends that through her paintings she can create characters with ten legs, a thousand horns, and giant teeth, that still feel familiar and relatable to a broad audience. These paintings not only celebrate the coexistence of her diverse background, but also invite viewers to embark on their journey of storytelling. McMonigle’s fantastical paintings are a natural fit with NSU Art Museum’s extensive collection of works by artists of the post-war European art movement Cobra, who similarly plumbed the subconscious and appropriated mythology to create grotesques that critique ideas about human and collective cultures.

Cici McMonigle studied fine art at Parsons School of Art and Design, New York, and psychology at Polk State College, Winter Haven, Florida. Solo exhibition: Wild West Circus, Mulberry Cultural Center, Mulberry, Florida. Group exhibitions include Florida Room 3: Snowbirds, KDR, Miami, 2024; Seeing is Believing, Mulberry Cultural Center, Mulberry, Florida, 2024; But Naked: A Collection of Soul Bearing Work, Polk Museum of Art, 2018, among others. Studio Residencies: Bakehouse Art Complex, Miami, 2024; Laundromat Art Space, Miami, 2023.

ABOUT MUSEUM ON THE MOVE

Museum on the Move is an innovative education program that invites Broward County students to NSU Art Museum. The program enhances learning and increases engagement by involving students in interactive programs of the Museum's exhibitions and hands-on art activities based on principles of STEAM (science, technology, engineering, art, math) along with 21st Century learning skills. These programs combine observations and discussions of the artwork where students learn to recognize mediums, materials, and the artistic process. The art activities are designed for students to recognize how different elements function together to express ideas and emotions, solve visual dilemmas, and realize artists' intentions.

Book your Museum on the Move field trip today. All Broward County Public Schools receive free transportation and tour! During their encounter, students participate in a guided tour led by an Art Educator. Students engage in conversation exploring methods of critical, and divergent thinking. In-person field trip visits also include a hands-on art making activity led by an educator. Additionally, virtual offerings can be tailored to the needs of the virtual classroom. Several virtual learning modules are available to choose from, each specially designed to suit your teaching needs: Live Virtual Zoom Tours (one per semester), and Elements of Art and Principles of Design prerecorded video series includes art talk and activity, art making videos and printable lessons and activities.

Teacher Guide Activities Overview

The activities in this guide can be adapted to fit the grade level of your students. The activity is based on the featured artist in the exhibition. Feel free to use this guide as a starting point for your physical or virtual classroom.

Description: The work of Cici McMonigle: Creatures for the Divine showcases her exuberant and colorful paintings of fabulous beasts and monstrous creatures derived from Chinese and American western fables and tales; artists best known for their sculptural work. Through discussion, research, writing, and observation, students will explore the concepts associated with this artist and their work.

Learning Objectives:

- Students will analyze artworks and think critically about what the artists may have intended to represent in their works.
- Students will compare and contrast the past to present day.
- Students will build an understanding of the art-making process by creating plans for artworks of their own.

Essential Questions:

- What can we learn about life and culture from the past?
 - How does life and culture compare to today?
- What aspects of these artist's artwork allows you to understand the lifestyle and events of the specific time the art was made?
- How has the artists used their medium to communicate, or archive their ideas?

Western Art History Timeline

Prehistoric (30,000 BC - 2500 BC) Associated with art made prior to the invention of written languages and record keeping, like cave paintings and stone carvings	Ancient Egyptian (3,000 BC - 300 AD) Associated with stylized depictions of people, and objects used for religious and ceremonial purposes, like canopic jars, and sarcophagi.
Greek Classical (500 BC - 300 BC) Associated with idealized images of the human form, seen in red and black figure pottery, marble sculpture and architecture.	Roman Classical (500 BC - 450 AD) Associated with narrative art that realistically depicts figures and architecture.
Byzantine (500 - 1200) Associated with mosaics and stylized, symbolic art that presented Christian themes.	Celtic, Saxon, and Viking Art (600 - 900) Associated with illuminated manuscripts and ornate metalwork.
Romanesque (1000 - 1300) Associated with art supported by religious patrons, strayed away from realism, and included high relief sculpture and stained glass.	Gothic (1100 - 1500) Associated with religious sculpture, stained glasses, and a unique architectural style, recognized through elements like pointed arches, flying buttresses, and rose windows.
Renaissance (1400 - 1525) Associated with a revival of classic Greek and Roman aesthetics, references to the bible and mythological subject matter, and realistic paintings and sculptures.	Mannerism (1520 - 1600) Associated with exaggerated, distorted figures and complex subjects.
Dutch Realism (1600 - 1700) Associated with small scale artwork, depicting symbolic images, and everyday activities of common people.	Baroque (1600 - 1700) Associated with themes similar to the Renaissance, but much more dynamic in movement, color and drama.
Rococo (1730 - 1800) Associated with highly decorated, ornate, and lighthearted subject matter.

PRE-VISIT ACTIVITIES

Before your visit to NSU Art Museum, we recommend that you and your students discuss some of the ideas and themes in the exhibition. It is beneficial to introduce your students to a number of works from the exhibition.

OBJECTIVES

- Introduce students to Cici Mcmonigle and their works.
- Discuss themes related to the exhibition.
- Elements of Art and Principles of Design

What are traditions in art?

Ask your students, what are traditions in art? During this activity, ask your students to discuss what constituted their idea of a tradition in art. Help them consider what is encompassed in tradition in art, how we interact with tradition, and why/how an artist would focus on the traditions of art.

- a. Compare and contrast the artworks below. Think about the idea of tradition in each artwork. Both works have captured their subjects in different ways.
- b. Discuss their similarities and differences.

Representational, Abstract, and Non-Representational Art

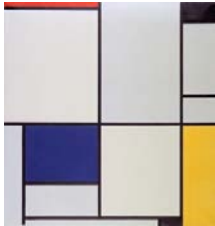

Representational	Abstraction	Non-Representational
 Three people on edge of pond, n.d., Photograph.	 Wasily Kadinsky, Landscape with Factory Chimney, 1910, Oil on canvas, Solomon R. Exquisite Corpse!

Fold a piece of paper in thirds. Form a group of three with your classmates. Take turns drawing the different parts of your creature, the head, the torso, and the legs. Draw each section without revealing the others. Reveal your Exquisite Corpse, and discuss your abstract figure as a group, and the attributes you chose to contribute.

Use the three artworks below as examples of representational, abstract, and non-representational artwork.

Representational	 Three people on edge of pond, n.d, Photograph.	Looks recognizable similar to something in the real world.
Abstract	 Wasily Kadinsky, Landscape with Factory Chimney, 1910, Oil on canvas, Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum	Increasingly moves away from the naturalistic image although it is still somewhat identifiable.
Non-Representational	 Piet Mondrian, Tableau I, 1921, oil on canvas, Kunstmuseum Den Haag Collection	The origins of the composition and image are not in the real world or are unrecognizable.

Questions for discussion:

1. What is a better style of art: representational, abstract, or non-representational? Why?
2. Can you find any similarities between the representational piece and the other two paintings?
3. Which elements of art and principles of design are incorporated in each piece? Do the artworks share any of them?

The Elements of Art and the Principles of Design

The Elements of Art are the basic parts used by Artists in creating art; they are what you use to create an aesthetically pleasing work. When we make Art, we need to understand and apply these seven Elements of Art.

Line A mark made by a pointed tool such as a brush, pen or stick, a moving point. Different tools make different kinds of lines.

Shape A flat, enclosed area that has two dimensions, length, and width. Artists use both geometric and organic shapes. Shapes come in many types and sizes.

Color Is one of the most dominant elements. It is created by light. There are three properties of light. Hue, Value, and Saturation. Colors can be bright, dull, dark, and light.

Value Degrees of lightness or darkness. The difference between values is called value contrast.

Form Objects that are three-dimensional having length, width, and height. They can be viewed from many sides. Forms take up space and volume.

Texture Describes the feel of an actual surface. The surface quality of an object; can be real or implied. Texture can be smooth or rough, hard, or soft, etc.

Space Is used to create the illusion of depth. Space can be two-dimensional three-dimensional, negative and or positive.

The Principles of Design describe the ways that artists use different strategies for creating a work of art.

Balance is the distribution of the visual weight of objects, colors, texture, and space.

Contrast is the difference between elements in a work of art, like color, line, shape, and texture.

Emphasis is the part of the design that catches the viewer's attention

Movement is the path the viewer's eye takes through the work of art, often to focal areas.

Pattern is the repetition of an element in a work of art. The pattern can use color, line, shape, or the other elements of art.

Scale refers to the size an object in relationship to another object. It is the feeling of unity created when all parts relate well with each other. When drawing the human figure, scale can refer to the size of the head compared to the rest of the body.

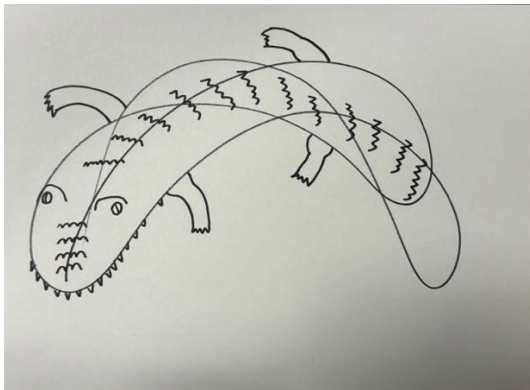

Harmony is when the elements of an artwork come together in a unified way.

Line

Create a drawing inspired by Cici McMonigle.

Use a black marker to draw a gestural/scribbled line.

Observe the abstract line and think of ways you can transform it into an animal
